

RIVER DERWENT. HOWSHAM BRIDGE.

YDAA controls both up and downstream sections of the Derwent at Howsham.

Members only

Right Bank

From the falls above the bridge to Barton Hill Beck, below the bridge.

There may be a bull in the field below the bridge.

From Howsham Bridge to Paradise Farm, approximately three quarters of a mile.

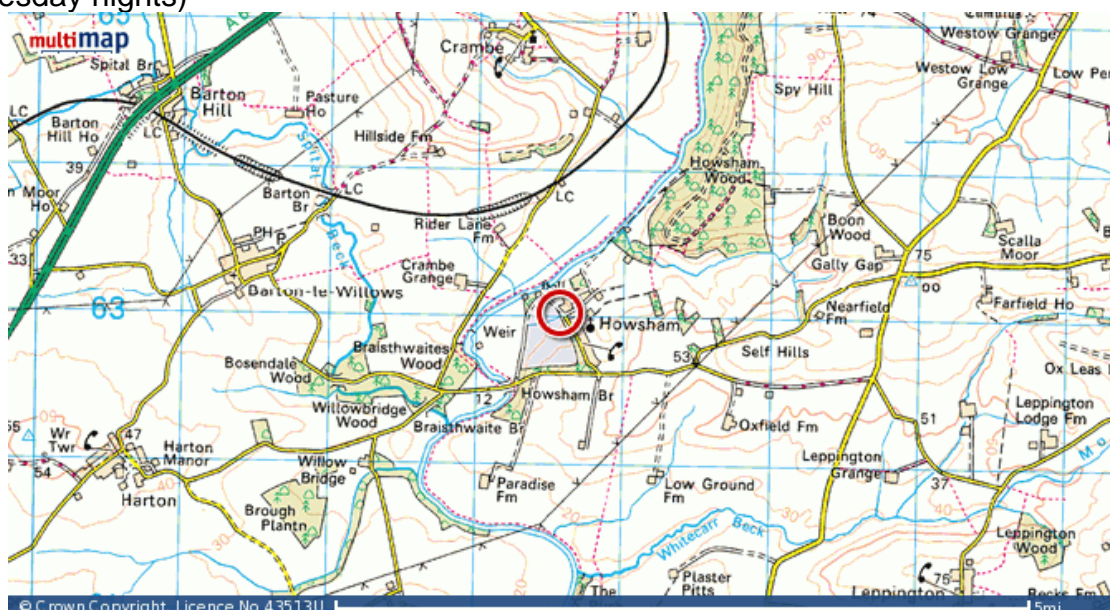

One of the most picturesque stretches of any Yorkshire river
This section of water is fast and shallow and holds a large variety of species.

Roach, dace, chub gudgeon, perch and pike are the predominate species with the addition of occasional grayling and trout.

This stretch is reputed to hold large barbel but they are very elusive and catching them takes a great deal of time and effort.

The river averages 8 to 10 ft in places and responds well to running lines and stick floats used in conjunction with maggot or casters. Regular little and often feeding should draw the fish to the angler. Ledgered bread flake can work well in the winter for the chub.

It should be noted that this section is shared with a local canoe club (usually Tuesday nights)

Travelling from York, take the A64 to Malton then turn right at the caravan show room following the signs for Howshan.

Parking is adjacent to the bridge. Please do not block the farm gates.
