Right Bank

From the bridge one field then after a gap, from the footbridge to the confluence of the Rye.

Left bank

From the bridge downstream to the River Rye.

A classic small stream, containing all types of species, from native brown trout, to grayling, dace, chub and pike.

The fish may not be of record-breaking size but can be a challenge of watercraft in such small a water.

Ideal for trotting with a centerpin, light floats and maggots, but will also produce to the fly, with dead baits for pike.

Camouflage is the key. If you like a trolley and a box full of gear, this venue is not for you.

It is a roamers paradise. The fish are often seen in low summer water and can give great sport.

Travelling from York, take the A64 to Malton then the A170 to Pickering. Turn Left towards Kirby Misperton follow the signs for the Zoo.
Go straight passed the zoo entrance then turn left at the T-junction and sharp right to the bridge.

Parking is adjacent to the bridge. Please do not block the farm gates.
